ANOTHER year has passed away, during the whole of which the attention of all the civilized world has been fixed on the great conflict going on in America, which is still undecided, and the time or manner of the end of which few are bold enough to predict. The interest of all, even the most careless, has necessarily been aroused by the contemplation of a struggle carried on with such obstinacy, and on so vast a scale; with an expenditure so enormous, and, alas! at the cost of such a terrible sacrifice of human life. Every Christian's heart surely has mourned over the passions which have been aroused, the words which have been spoken, the deeds which have been done, on this great continent, in which it might have been hoped would have been seen abounding and increasing all the noblest fruits of Protestant Christianity. Shall it not be our earnest prayer that peace may soon be given, and that before long it may be our happiness to record that the war is over, and to acknowledge, in good brought out of evil, the overruling hand of Him who worketh all things according to the counsel of His own will.

The subject is alluded to here because it is so closely connected with the work of the Mission, the Annual Report of the proceedings of which is here laid before its friends and supporters. Whatever may be the result of the present American war, it is evident that the position of the African race on that continent must be materially affected by it; and all who are interested in the highest welfare and progress of that unfortunate people have a special reason for watching with deep interest the course of events. The history of this people in America has been very strange. Torn originally from their own country against their will, and placed in the land in which they have so wonderfully increased, they have become unwittingly the cause of the convulsions which have taken place; and without any movement on their part, most closely associated with and involved in the events which have happened. Whatever may be the opinion formed of the immediate views of the opposite parties when the war began, it cannot be doubted that the question of slavery was at the very foundation of the strife. As it has proceeded the proclamation of its abolition has been used by President Lincoln professedly as an engine of war. By exciting the sympathies and hopes of the colored population on either side, and by employing them as soldiers, it has been sought to infuse fresh vigor and animosity into the strife; and the question of their future state will doubtless be the chief difficulty to be surmounted in any attempt at settlement or compromise. But however doubtful the prospect may be, the friends of freedom may feel that in any case the hateful system of slavery has received a shock from which it never can recover,—that it will never be re-established as the legalized institution of a great country. And may they not also trust that sooner or later the miserable sophistries which have helped to debase and confuse public opinion, and by which brave and Christian men have been able to satisfy their consciences, will be cleared away? And that then it will be accounted through the whole American Continent as monstrous a thing to uphold or defend slavery, as it is now, by God's blessing, in Great Britain or her Colonies.

One fact mentioned by the agents of this Mission is of itself significant enough to show the change which has taken place with regard to the question of slavery in the Northern States. They report that fewer fugitives than usual have reached Canada during the past year, and account for it by the fact that now they feel safe in the Northern States, and no longer need to look to Canada as their only place of refuge. As might be supposed, great numbers have been congregated in those States, and most lamentable has been their condition of destitution and suffering. At the close of last, and the beginning of the present year, the attention of the Society of Friends was directed to this subject, both in America and this country, and a special effort was instituted by them for the relief of the poor sufferers. One or two extracts are given from information by agents appointed by them to investigate the condition and wants of the colored refugees in the neighbourhood of Washington, Fort Monroe, &c.:—

"We left Washington on the 28th, and reached Baltimore in time to take the evening boat for Fort Monroe, where we arrived in the morning of the 29th.

"The number of refugees, men, women, and children, in this vicinity were reported to us as follows:—At Fort Monroe, 1,000; at Hamilton and Camp Hamilton and surroundings, 2,500; at Fort Norfolk, 632; at Craney Island, 1,128; at Norfolk, 794; and sick, 67; making a total of 6,054.

"At Craney Island some of the colored men are employed in fishing for oysters, and the doctor expects to employ a considerable number in that way. The island is too small to give employment in agriculture. We inquired of many where they came from, and why they left their masters. Generally the question seemed to excite surprise or incredulity. The answer was nearly the same in all cases; they came away for their freedom, so that they might enjoy the reward of their own labor; but that if they could have this at home, they would rather go back. Not one of all the multitude whom we saw was desirous of going North. We were much gratified with our visit to Craney Island.

"We called at Fort Norfolk on our return. The Superintendent, John Dawson, had as many as 962 at this place; but all the able-bodied men had been taken away for various Government employ; so that the present number was reduced to 632. The condition of these people appeared very unfavorable. Many were wretchedly clad; altogether they presented a miserable appearance. They were quartered in a large warehouse, formerly used to store guano. This building had no chimney, and the fires of wood filled it with smoke, so as to cause tears to run from the eyes of many of the little children.

"In conversation with John Dawson, he had no doubt that all these people could easily support themselves if they had the opportunity, either upon the land or in other fields of industry. He showed us some excellent oaken baskets made by them, and worth from 50 cents to 75 cents each.

"C. B. Wilder, after an experience of eight or nine months' constant intercourse with hundreds of them, had no doubt that if they had a fair chance to work, they would not only support themselves but all the women and children. No men could show greater industry and alacrity to work, when employed on a 'cash job.' They have not only a full appreciation of money, but of its absence, when due for work, and not paid. To assert, in the face of fact, that these men, whose industry has been so fruitful, cannot take care of themselves without the aid of a white man to consume in idleness or luxury the proceeds of their labor, is to impeach the wisdom of the Creator."

Mr. Ladd writes from Richmond, Ohio, January 2, 1863:—

"We went on board a boat that night, and next morning found ourselves on the way to Columbus, Kentucky, another military post on the Mississippi, twenty-five miles below Cairo. We spent the whole day among them, and found some 2,000 to 2,500 or more; and no one who has not visited them, here or at some similar points, can have any just conception of the wretchedness of their condition. We saw there from five to seven hundred human beings, of all ages and both sexes, crowded together in one dilapidated old stable with no floor in it. We saw several hundred more in squads upon the bare ground, without any shelter at all. None of them had even hay or straw to lie on, and nearly all of them were without bedding of any kind. We saw mothers there, clad only in an old chemise and thin muslin skirt, and no dress. We saw daughters there of every age, from infancy to twelve or fourteen years, with only a single garment. We saw a mother, as she sobbed and choked with emotion, begging, in broken utterances, for a rag to wrap about her little child that had died the night before!"

The following letter is dated Cincinnati, January 24, 1863:—

"We have accounts by letter of a continual influx at almost every post where our army is in command, the number varying from one thousand to five and six thousand each. At Cairo, in Illinois, they have some two thousand, having a school taught by two friends (Hadley's). At Columbus they are greatly neglected. At Memphis, Tennessee, letters of the 12th and 14th inst. state that five thousand had come in within two days, in addition to those already there, for whom a school had been in operation about ten weeks.

"A correspondent, writing from Memphis, the 18th inst., says, 'On Saturday night last, the railroad train brought in about one thousand; the next day two trains of seventeen cars each came loaded with the same human freight, all from the region of Oxford, Tennessee. They said the rebel army had hauled away all the corn, killed all the cows and hogs; that their masters were tying them together, and taking them South, and they were obliged to flee; they are of all ages, from infancy to old age, evidently families; they came as the Israelites fled from Egypt, with whatever effects could be carried in the hand or on the head; bundles, trunks, chests, and even their "kneading-troughs." The first instalment stowed themselves under a cotton shed, a mere roof without floor or siding; of those who came afterwards a few found a similar shelter, but the greater number had no roof but the vault of heaven.'"

But slavery is not the only evil which we have to mourn in connexion with the African race in America. There is that sad and unchristian spirit which exists in many places where slavery is unknown, which looks down upon the negro as on one of an inferior race; which shrinks from associating with him; which would bid him stand apart even in the house of God. It is well known how much this antipathy has prevailed in the Northern States, and in what fearful forms it has, in some instances, lately manifested itself; nor, unfortunately, is the feeling altogether unknown in the British American territory. Against this spirit the Mission to the Fugitive Slaves is a continual protest, employing as it does Missionaries who minister to white people and colored people alike, and who make no invidious distinctions. The letters of the missionaries will be the best testimony to the spirit in which they labor, and will afford fresh evidence that a work in which such a bright example is set, and which helps so to bind together both black and white in the bonds of Christian union, while it cares for the souls of those whom their former wretchedness has brought to be sojourners amongst us, is a work of Christian charity, and one in which Christian England must surely rejoice to join.

Before proceeding, however, to illustrate the above remarks by extracts from the missionary reports, there is one subject to which the Committee allude with very mingled feelings. They have lost the services of Mrs. Thomas, one of their Secretaries. And while they rejoice to think of the fresh sphere of Christian influence and usefulness opening before her, they cannot but bear in mind the very heavy loss which the Fugitive Slave Mission has sustained. None but those immediately connected with the work can know how she was the very life and soul of its management; or how much of its progress and extension has, under God, been due to her active exertions, her prudent counsels, her Christian sympathy with all its various agents, with whom it was her delight to correspond. The Committee could not attempt to give an account of the proceedings of the past year without recording their sense of what the Mission owes to her with whom it has been their happiness to work; and it is their earnest prayer that it may please God to bless her with health and strength in her new country; that she may long be enabled to show that interest in the cause of Colonial Missions, in the very field itself, which she has so long showed in their management at home.

I. Diocese of Huron.

DRESDEN.—Mr. Hughes continues to labor zealously in this Station. In the following letter many interesting details will be found, throwing much light on the position of the colored people in Canada. At its beginning it will be seen he gives his opinion on a point which was under consideration at the time of the publication of the last Report—the advisability of employing a Colporteur in connexion with the Mission:—

"You ask what are my views of the desirability of employing a colporteur to labor among the fugitives. As I expressed to Mr. —— some months ago, I certainly do not think that a travelling missionary to the fugitives in Canada would be able to effect much good. All that such an agent could do would be to hold occasional religious meetings, distribute tracts, &c. To visit all the scattered families of fugitives in the country would be impossible, for some are to be found in almost every township of Western Canada. A very short time would be sufficient to enable him to visit all the principal settlements, and then, of course, he must commence his round again. At first, as a matter of curiosity, the people would attend his meetings, which must be held in their own churches or houses; but he would soon encounter opposition; the jealousy of their own preachers would he excited, his objects would be misunderstood and his motives misrepresented, and very probably, before long, he would find some of their churches closed against him. It should be borne in mind that, degraded as the colored people are, they are not heathens, but possess their own church organizations, and have a superabundance of preachers. For the most part, it is true, these men are wretchedly ignorant, and, in very many cases, idle, worthless characters; but still, they cling to them because they are colored men, and, being themselves even still more ignorant, as a rule, do not desiro any other teachers. A travelling missionary, too, would be totally unable to exercise any personal influence over the white population in the neighbourhood of colored settlements, and, consequently, could do nothing towards softening those unchristian prejudices which exist against the negro race, and which constitute the greatest difficulty of the missionary.

"After now more than five years' labor in connexion with this Mission, so difficult a work have I found it, that I must confess I feel very diffident in expressing my views as to what is the most desirable agency for the Society to employ in its efforts to elevate these despised people, and promote their spiritual welfare. My own opinion, however, is that the ordained clergyman is the most effective agent, but that it is very undesirable to send a missionary exclusively to the fugitives. To do so is at once to place the gravest obstacles in the way of his success; for, while they have separate Churches of their own establishing, they strongly object to be treated as a separate people by the white man; and, besides, such a missionary, being cut off from all intercourse with the white population, can exercise no influence in checking the offensive exhibition of that dislike which is entertained by nearly all towards the colored race. I therefore think that a missionary, to do any real good even to the fugitives and colored people themselves, should be a permanently stationed clergyman, who, while carefully avoiding taking any part in separate school and other questions upon which there is so much strife, makes no difference in his treatment between the colored and white inhabitants of his mission. All his services must be freely open to all alike. There must not be the slightest approximation to the negro pew or separate system. He must, in short, be prepared, not only to recognise Acts xvii. 26 as a truth, but to act upon it. To do this is, indeed, a far more difficult, delicate, and trying work than those who do not understand American society can possibly conceive. But what small measure of success has attended my labors here has arisen, under God, from a humble endeavour to carry out these principles. Holding these views, I cannot help thinking, especially while such a place as Chatham remains unoccupied, which contains the largest concentrated colored population in Canada, that the employment of a colporteur might be deferred."

REMOVALS BY DEATH.

"During the past quarter death has been very busy in my mission. There have been many sudden and unexpected removals. The most influential man in the village, Mr. ——, was suddenly stricken down, and, after a few days' illness, called to his account. This was the individual who refused to sell me a site for a church. Poor man! I visited him several times during his short sickness; he appeared very glad to see me. Another very sudden removal was that of a member of my own little flock, Isaac J. H——, a son of Father H—— ('Uncle Tom'), one of the most humble-minded and thoroughly Christian men I ever met with. The following extracts from my journal give the particulars of his illness and funeral:—

"Jan. 7.—Lecture this evening—subject, our Lord's mode of instructing by parables, illustrated by Matt. xiii. Heard of J. H.'s illness; must visit him to-morrow.

"Jan. 8.—Visited J. H.; found him much worse than I anticipated; advised his friends to lose no time in sending for help. Heard that Dr. S., of Chatham, was in the village, visiting another sick man; went to try to meet with him, but was sorry to find it was not a correct report.

"Jan. 9.—Found J. H. no better this morning. His friends had sent to Chatham for a doctor, but he had not arrived; roads very bad, and travelling tedious. J. H. thought it was impossible for him to live unless a change speedily took place, and was, therefore, very anxious about the arrival of the doctor. The pain he was in was very great, but his resignation to the will of God was most refreshing. I remarked that the extreme sufferings he was then called upon to endure were so acute as almost to render him incapable of attending to anything else, and what a blessed thing it was that he had not now to begin to seek the Lord! Called again this evening; was glad to find the doctor had been, and that he felt a little easier. Committed him in prayer to a merciful God, and trust to find him better in the morning.

"Jan. 10.—Poor J. H. rather worse to-day. His sufferings are very intense. He told me that he had given up all hope of recovery, but that death had no terrors to him. He then spoke very feelingly of his wife and young children, from whom, he said, it was very hard to part; but it was God's will, and he must submit. Was much affected, and, after a few words of prayer, left him, feeling convinced that a few hours more would decide his case.

"Sunday, Jan. 11.—Early this morning a person came to inform me that J. H. had departed. He continued to get worse from the time I left him. In the night, feeling his end approaching, he called for his wife and children, took a tender leave of them, and committed them to the care of his Heavenly Father. He then asked those present to join him in singing a hymn, He spoke but little afterwards, but gradually sunk, and, early in the morning, breathed his last. On Monday I committed his remains to the earth; and, as in this country it is a common practice to preach a sermon at funerals, I did so on this occasion. A very large congregation assembled, more than I have ever before seen at a funeral; my own room would not have held a tithe of them. The Baptists kindly placed their church at our service; it is by far the largest building in the place, but was insufficient to accommodate the crowds that came. The whole population of the neighbourhood, both white and colored, appeared to have turned out, which shows the kindly feeling universally entertained towards Mr. H. He had been the active superintendent of our Sunday-school for the past two years—a post for which he was well qualified, having received a good education in England at the British and Foreign School, which was not thrown away upon him. He used it for the good of his people. No man, according to his opportunity, labored harder for their advancement than he did; he was always ready to give up his time and sacrifice his own interests to serve them. I had a good deal of intercourse with him. He was fond of reading, and took especial delight in Christian evidences. His death has much affected me. It was so entirely unexpected. He formed one of a party who came and surprised us on New-Year's morning by singing pieces announcing the birth of another year under my window. Little did any of us then think that in a few days he would be laid in the cold grave!"

HISTORY OF A FUGITIVE FROM THE SOUTH.

"The American war engrosses almost the whole attention of the people; and well it may, for it is pregnant with the most momentous results to their race. Now the Federal Government are enlisting colored men, numbers in this district are talking of volunteering for the war, but I do not think many of them will do so. A few days ago, a poor, wounded contraband arrived here direct from the seat of war in Virginia, and, as he has been employed about the camp or in driving a baggage-waggon from the commencement of the rebellion, he has seen much of the frightful horrors of that unnatural strife. His wounds he received while escaping to the Northern lines; they are still very painful, and it will be a considerable time before he recovers from them, if, indeed, he ever regains the use of his left arm sufficiently to labor for his living. He called at my house for some relief, and gave the following account of himself:— His master, whose name he bore, he said was J—— M——, a very wealthy man, who owns several plantations and about 300 slaves. Mr. M—— himself resided at ——, a large town about twenty-five miles from Richmond, his estates and slaves being under the management of overseers, whom M—— described as hard taskmasters. By his master he had never been ill-treated, but had frequently been flogged by the overseers. Slave-owners of the standing of his master do not often personally ill-use their slaves, but employ others to do that kind of work for them. He had a wife and five children, but had not seen them since the war broke out. About four months ago he asked his master's permission to go and visit them, but he flew into a passion, and threatened him with a hundred lashes. M—— admitted, however, that his master gave as a reason the impossibility of complying with his request in the present troublous times, as the services of every man who could be of any use were required in carrying on the war. Vast numbers of slaves, he said, had escaped, but, situated as he was, he saw no possibility of his doing so, though he had for a long time past made up his mind to make the attempt on the first favorable opportunity. This was afforded him about five weeks ago. He had been sent, with others, to take supplies to a position called Five Points. The teamsters, he said, slept in their waggons, and on this occasion, the night being very dark, he resolved to try and get away. After lying till the camp was tolerably still, he got up and proceeded a short distance; but, seeing too many stirring about, his heart failed him, and he turned back and waited a couple of hours longer, when he got up again, and, finding the camp extremely quiet, summoned up courage to make another attempt. He stole quietly along, choosing as retired a way as he could, and, favored by the darkness, succeeded in getting through the camp unobserved. He now thought his greatest danger over, but, after proceeding a little further, perceived four or five men sitting in row on the ground. This was a picket-guard. Fortunately, they did not see him, and, being now desperate, he passed them; but, in climbing a fence which stood in his way, a short distance in advance of them, they discovered him and fired. A ball struck him on the side of the head, just over the eye, and he fell, but got up again instantly, and started to run, but had not taken more than two or three steps before they fired again, and wounded him in the back and left arm; but still he ran on, though suffering the greatest agony from the two last wounds, and almost blinded by the blood that streamed from the wound over his eye. After a while he slackened his pace, and proceeded more cautiously, feeling now afraid of the Northern pickets, but did not attempt to conceal himself, as he felt it was a matter of life and death with him anyhow. Having gone a little further, he heard some one say, 'Listen, I hear footsteps.' He said he then thought his last moment was come, but kept walking on towards the place where he thought the guard lay. In another moment a voice cried out, 'Halt, or you are a dead man!' He stopped, and could see the guard some little distance ahead of him. One called out, 'Who are you?' He made answer, 'I am a black man.' 'Come forward.' He then went up to them, and one of the guard, pulling his lantern from behind him, held it to his face, and, seeing that he was wounded, asked if it was he that the rebel picket fired at just now. He told them, 'Yes.' These men, he said, behaved very kindly to him, and bandaged up his wounds as well as they could. One of them even took the handkerchief off his neck, and bound it round his head to stay the blood which flowed so profusely from the wound over his eye. They then sent him forward to the hospital, where he was kept for a few days and his wounds attended to; but, as the hospitals were so crowded, he was told that they could do no more for him, and, being furnished with a pass, was sent beyond the lines to shift for himself. Had he not been wounded, he would have been retained, and either placed in one of the colored regiments or otherwise employed in the Northern army. A Quaker family in Ohio took pity on him and nursed him for a week, and then advised him to make for Canada, putting him in the way of getting here. M—— is a very intelligent and well-spoken man, having been a body servant for some years. He professes to know Mr. Jefferson Davis well, and to have seen much of 'Stonewall' Jackson, whom he appears to regard with a kind of superstitious awe. The people here are very kind to him."

THE PROPOSED NEW CHURCH.

Our readers will remember that Mr. Hughes's earnest appeal for help towards the building of a new church was inserted in the last Report. That appeal hitherto has met with but little response. Mr. Hughes writes again on the subject as follows:—

"I cannot close without saying a word on the subject of my proposed church. It is a matter of vital importanee to progress. I know the giving powers of Christian England are greatly taxed, but where am I to look for help? In this country the Fugitive Slave Mission has but little sympathy, and can expect no support. If, therefore, its friends at home fail, the work must languish; but I cannot think that, having put their hands to the plough, they will now hold back. God in His providence has called upon me to make no small sacrifices in the prosecution of this work. I do not say this in a complaining spirit, for my heart is in the work, and nothing would grieve me so much as to see the little progress made here checked. Forgive me for thus earnestly pleading for this object; but, as I have said before, it is a want that must soon be supplied, or our work here must retrograde."

WINDSOR.—An arrangement has been carried out by which Mr. Hurst's large district has been divided—Sandwich being separated from Windsor, as will be seen by his letters,—and he now resides in the midst of the people at Windsor. The following letter will be interesting to the friends of this Mission, relating, as it does, to the memorial of one who faithfully labored and died in its service.

"Windsor, C.W., April 16, 1862.

"Some time last spring you gave me permission to procure a stone for Miss Williams's grave. The stone has now been prepared, and set up. The slab is of the purest marble, standing at the head of the grave, about five feet in height, and firmly set in a block of free-stone. The top of the slab is in the form of a pointed arch, in the centre of which is a rose plucked off and apparently falling. The lettering you will see from the enclosed paper. The whole looks very well, and I think appropriate."

JEMIMA A. WILLIAMS,

NATIVE OF LONDON, ENGLAND,

AND MISSIONARY TO FUGITIVE SLAVES,

WHO DIED AT DRESDEN, C.W.,

2D JANUARY, 1860,

AGED 29 YEARS.

"THOSE THAT SLEEP IN JESUS WILL GOD BRING WITH HIM."—1 Thess. iv. 14.

THIS STONE HAS BEEN ERECTED HERE BY THE SOCIETY WHICH SHE SO FAITHFULLY SERVED.

TRIALS OF THE WINTER.

"This has been a hard winter here in many ways, and for almost every one. We had also an unusual amount of severe sickness, and especially amongst the colored people, and more have been in want than usual. The supply of clothing we had at the beginning of winter was large, and has been distributed with the greatest care, but is now quite exhausted. I cannot say the number of fugitives has been unusually large, but some of them were in extreme destitution, and suffered much from exposure. Some who came were slaves who took refuge amongst the northern troops, and were by them forwarded in the luggage vans on the railway. These were very destitute, and almost immediately came to the house for clothing. Some of them were quite young, and, of course, practically orphans. We had one at the house a few days ago who could not have been more than ten years old, and I was sorry was too late,—all was gone. A man, his wife, and child came quite destitute. I believed them to be very deserving, and they were supplied with a little, but were too late to obtain much that was suitable. The poor woman became ill immediately, and after partially recovering, took the small-pox. She had then an infant about three weeks old, and not having sufficient warm covering on her, had nearly lost her life. Another poor woman took the small-pox, and before we knew of her sickness was dead, simply through exposure, and having no one to light her fire. This woman I believe to have been a Christian, and so is gone to her rest."

ENCOURAGEMENT IN THE SCHOOLS.

"As far as education is concerned, I think there has been a decided improvement both in Sandwich and Windsor. There has been a change of teachers in both places. In Windsor we have Mr. Whipper, who taught in Dresden. He is working the school well. Perhaps the colored people in Windsor were never so well provided with education, and as summer is advancing, work will become more plentiful, and distress less frequent.

"On Sunday afternoon I had service amongst the colored people in Sandwich with good attendance and great attention. There are some good people here who understand the truths of the Gospel. Some of those in Sandwich come frequently to the white church, and some also in Windsor, and I think the number will increase.

"The Bibles which were given me by the British and Foreign Bible Society are very useful amongst them."

DIFFICULTIES OF THE WORK.

"May 28.

"The box of which you advised me arrived safely, not before all our stock had been exhausted some weeks. It contains some very good books, pamphlets, &c., which will be of great use in my large parish to lend, some of them are already gone into the country. I trust God is blessing my work, but I am not happy in seeing so much left undone. In this country a clergyman has to work alone more than in England. We have to fight all the time against evil habits, and especially in border towns, and must either conquer through the grace of God, or be conquered by the evil communications of the place. But the Lord has promised that grace shall be sufficient, and hitherto I have found it to be so."

NEED OF MORE HELP.

"April 1, 1863.

"I write to ask if it is possible to add one more agent in this district. The field is open, the increase of colored people continual. Last Sunday afternoon I preached to about 150 of them, a congregation which gradually increases, and I could not help wishing we had a layman here, who could take charge of a Sunday-school, and deliver cottage lectures.

"We have many calls for clothing, but have had none for some time, and during this war some very aggravated cases of destitution are brought under our notice. The white people of Detroit lately committed a most fearful outrage on the blacks in the town, burning about forty or fifty of their houses, and driving them to our side of the river. I stood watching them come over from the boat, looking like fugitives indeed, carrying babies, bundles, &c., and not knowing where to find a shelter. Since that, however, order has been restored, and some amends having been made, most of them have ventured back to their places, but still many are coming, not with difficulty, but just as easily as any other man can travel. We have more colored people now than for a long time before, indeed more than can find employment; they must either disperse or starve."

DIVISION OF THE PARISH.

"June 17, 1863.

"My parish is now divided, and, strange to say, my work has thereby been increased. I now live in the midst of the people, and have many more calls. The colored people have become exceedingly numerous here, and now is the time to do good. If we had more strength to keep the work steadily going much would be achieved. A church to succeed in a town must have service at least once each Sunday, but in the town I have both white and colored people, and nothing will induce them to mix in the same church. The colored have as many objections to raise as the whites, and the consequence is, an unprofitable division of time, strength, and labor, which hinders very much one's success in organizing colored congregations. I am more than ever persuaded that it would be economy to have help in each important station."

The above extract illustrates what has been said of the special hindrances to this work arising from this antipathy of races, which unfortunately exists so strongly. A ministry, however, like that of Mr. Hurst's, must tend, by God's blessing, to mitigate this evil. And those who alike look to him as their common pastor must thus be continually reminded that they are Christian brethren. The letter which follows encourages us to believe this.

"Windsor, C.W., Feb. 25, 1863.

"Your letter of the 22d ultimo was a long time on its way, not arriving until near a month after date. This rendered it impossible for me to write in time for the March Meetings. I would have sent last Saturday by the American mail, but it was the time of our Annual Meetings for the Church Society, and a deputation from the Bishop being present, my time was taken up at the different stations.

"The parish is now actually divided, and a Rev. S. Tighe appointed to Sandwich. The people of Windsor have hired a house for me, and we are about to move from Sandwich Parsonage. This will be the twelfth time we have moved since we became connected with the Society in 1851. For this one change I have longed and prayed about three years, and now it comes,—does not our God work wonders. Three years ago even the warmest friends of Windsor Church believed it would be sold, and now two-thirds of its debt is paid, and it becomes the mother church of a new parish, and the congregation have confidence sufficient to hire a parsonage-house.

"We have a few colored people coming over, but not in great numbers,—nor will the numbers greatly increase until some new feature appears in connexion with the war, and likely to affect their safety. Amongst those who are here no great change has taken place, and certainly none for the worse. I have no difficulty to bring them together, and they are now asking me to add a week evening service.

"I shall still retain one country church, eight miles distant, amongst a warm-hearted, but poor people, who will manage to pay my horse-hire; and an occasional country-journey refreshes one's spirit.

"Our place is thronged with white fugitives, perhaps five white to one black. How are matters changed! There is a great amount of infidelity amongst them, and some are too ignorant to be even infidels."

LONDON.—Mr. W. Tearn is still at work here, but no fresh intelligence has been received from him by the Committee.

II. Diocese of Toronto.

BARRIE.—The following letters of Mr. Morgan were addressed to the Committee of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, who vote part of the grant made to him. They are inserted here, as referring so much to that portion of his work which is in connexion with this Mission.

"Barrie, Sept. 30, 1862.

"In presenting this Report I have to reiterate my regret in being still unable to offer any encouraging statement of progress in the Mission among the colored population in the township of Oro; their prejudices are very strong; they seem to fear that the object of the clergyman of the Church of England is to draw them from their own peculiar views and customs. I have endeavoured to relieve their minds of this impression by meeting these views, as far as consistent, by using extempore prayer when giving them a service on a week-day, and also preaching to them extempore. A few now seem to regret the folly of the others in having treated the offer with so much indifference, and rejecting, in a great measure, the services.

In conversation with a few of them last week they expressed a hope that a greater number, if not the whole, would be disposed henceforth to receive my ministrations. I gave a service in their settlement two weeks ago in a chapel of the Congregational body; there were about 100 present, not many, however, of the colored people. One who was there said they hoped they would be induced to lay aside their prejudices, and, from the fact of their having requested me to give them a service in the church in this town, I have some hope that they may pursue henceforth a different course. They asked me to preach for them in the church in Barrie on the 1st August, when they celebrated the emancipation of the slave population. There were about sixty or seventy present. I read a portion of the Morning Service of the Church, with selected Psalms and Lessons, and preached from John viii. 36. They were much gratified with the service.

"I still visit among them as I go about my district, and distribute tracts, and trust that the seed sown will not be without its fruit.

"During the last three months I have travelled by carriage nearly 900 miles, and on foot about 200, having visited 282 families, distributing tracts, &c. I have three Bible-classes in operation, with an average attendance of about thirty—not so large as I could wish, but I trust it will be better. Some appear much interested in the instruction, as I question them, and induce them also to put questions on what they do not clearly understand."

"Barrie, Jan. 5, 1863.

"Since my last Report, little has occurred in the course of my ministrations of more than ordinary character. I have, indeed, met with difficulties that in themselves would tend to discourage, but these have led me to look out of self to a power beyond my own, even to Him who is Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, as well as Prince of Peace; nor have I looked in vain. In consequence of continued rains, the roads have been so heavy as to make travelling difficult; in some places I considered it almost cruel to remain on horseback, so that I dismounted and walked, picking my way as best I could along the edge of the road; the animal thus relieved of his burden, could make better progress. In addition to this, we have had much sickness and many deaths in different parts of my district. I have, too, been obliged to devote a good deal of time to the erection of a church for one of my congregations, about twenty-four miles from the colored settlement; these things have prevented my visiting their neighbourhood as frequently as I desired. We are still with bad roads; a thing unknown, I believe, for about twenty-five or thirty years in this part of the country—we are still without snow on the roads. I drove yesterday twenty-four miles, but with difficulty; a great part of the road, though generally the best I travel on, was deep in mud. I trust, however (D.V.), we shall soon have snow, which will enable us to get about on our cutters (the only good mode of travelling in many parts of the interior), when I purpose to visit our colored brethren, and see what I can accomplish for their spiritual welfare. They had, some short time since, a young colored man among them as a minister; I was, however, informed by one of them a few days since that he had declined to return to them unless they would make up a certain sum for him, which they are unable to do. This may, perhaps, have the effect of inducing them more readily and gratefully to accept the services gratuitously and kindly offered them by the Society.

"I feel assured your Society will be glad to learn that I have succeeded, with one of my congregations, in erecting a nice church, 50 × 30, with chancel and vestry, that will contain 250 persons, and am about finishing another that was commenced by my predecessor, but, from various causes, was left unfinished. I have now induced the congregation to take steps for its completion.

"The room in which the colored people meet for worship is very poor, and wretchedly cold. I purpose to try if I cannot induce them to improve it, and make it more worthy of its use. I will try and help them, and, if they are disposed to help themselves, I doubt not the Society would add a small sum by way of grant.

"During the quarter I have driven and ridden 1,021 miles, I have walked in visits 218, and have visited 268 families. I have held Divine service three times each Sabbath-day, and in the week, Bible-classes, &c. I would conclude by praying earnestly that the Lord would greatly prosper the Society's efforts, to His glory and the good of souls."

Our friends will thankfully compare the tone of the following letter with that which appeared in the last Report, in which Mr. Morgan told of the heavy discouragement he had met with, and how little his services seemed appreciated. Now it will be seen that this previous labor has not been in vain, and he is able to write more cheerfully.

"Since my last Report I have had cause to see it is not well to despair, but to proceed steadily in the path of duty, casting our bread upon the waters, assured that though it may be after many days, yet we shall find it. From the opposition which I met with from a portion of the colored people some time ago, I almost feared it would prove useless to continue to labor amongst them. I am happy, however, to be able to say I think a better feeling now exists. There seems a disposition to receive my ministrations. On my last visit to the settlement I preached as usual in the Congregational chapel, kindly lent me for the purpose by the leading member, who, with his family, is, I believe, trying to extend the kingdom of the Redeemer among the people. The members of the Church of England, and some of other denominations, attended, in all about eighty; more colored persons came than usual, the place in which they hold their meetings is very much out of order. One of them said if I would give a service in his house, some little distance from where I usually preach, he would feel great pleasure, and would endeavour to assemble a congregation. The roads at present are bad, as usual at the early part of spring, from the melting of the snow, but as soon as they dry up a little I purpose giving the service, when I hope many will be induced to attend. Another family not far from Barrie have since told me they would also be glad to have a service in their house; there are a few colored people about the neighbourhood: this I purpose doing. In a long conversation I had with this family they were astonished when I showed them that their services for baptism, marriage, and burial, as also for ordination, were taken from the Prayer-book of the Church of England; the large majority of them are Episcopal Methodists, they have no Liturgy for Sabbath services. On one of my visits I promised a fine intelligent little boy, just learning to read, a Bible, as soon as he could read several verses well. On my next visit I made him a present of the Bible, with which he seemed quite pleased.

"The people are, generally speaking, I fear, doing badly in temporal matters. About two weeks ago I went to visit an old man (colored) and his family, about fourteen miles from Barrie. There was but little track in the snow; there had been great drifts. My cutter was overturned, and a man not far off, hearing me call to the horse to keep it quiet, came to my assistance whilst I was lifting up the cutter, but the poor man was very feeble. I discovered it was the man I was about to visit; he had got his feet frozen last winter, and I had then visited him; he said he was trying to earn a little by chopping cord wood; his wife was then lame. I spent an hour with them in religious conversation and prayer. He expressed his regret that the people should have been so blind hitherto to their interests as not to receive at first gratefully the offer of a preached Gospel. I think the present of a few cheap Bibles, Testaments, and tracts, especially Ryle's, would do good amongst them.

"The other portions of my Mission I am happy to say are going on I trust favorably, and though I do not see that amount of deep piety I desire, I thank God for what I do see, and take courage,—to Him alone be the praise. I will go on to labor, assured that He will bless His own Word. My congregations are steadily on the increase. I finished a nice new church at Christmas; it was opened for Divine service on 11th January; it is calculated to seat about 250 comfortably. There were nearly 400 present both at the morning and evening services. On Easter Sunday I had in it as many communicants as I had for the whole congregation when I first preached among them seven years ago (26). My usual congregation is now about 100. About six miles further, another new congregation averages from 35 to 55. I have been able to give them a Sunday service only about a year. I formerly gave them service on a week-day, and my first congregation numbered four in a little room. I have three other churches besides the new one and Barrie, and all progressing favorably, some seeking the Lord earnestly, whilst others are beginning to see truly the value of the Gospel.

"I have, during the quarter, travelled by horse 866 miles, and on foot, 193; visited 202 families; distributing tracts, and reading the Bible and engaging in prayer where I thought it necessary."

ORILLIA.—The grant to this district was mentioned in the last Report. It is made partly from the funds of the Fugitive Slave Mission, partly from those of the Parent Society. As was then said, the Rev. J. Creighton was appointed to the post, and the following extracts will give an idea of the character of the field of his labors:—

"July 3.—In my last I gave you a sketch of the field in which I labor, and the number of places in which public worship is held. Since then there has been no change made in the services, and I have been enabled, by the blessing of God, to carry out the arrangement then laid down.

"I trust that my humble labors in this locality are not, and shall not be, without their fruits. Laboring as I am in connexion with the Incumbent of the parish, my work is so mixed up with his that it is not easy to point out the good that each is doing. But it is owing to your Society that public worship can be kept up in many of the congregations which are now in a very encouraging condition. I still continue to visit the Muskoka settlement once a-month, where I have three services on each visit. This is a field extensive enough to take up a missionary's whole time, but has heretofore been without a Sunday service. Lately the Methodist body has appointed a man exclusively for these parts, which I hope will not interfere with our work.

"The field is large enough for us both, but there is the greater necessity to continue the work that has been begun, lest what had already been done may be in vain as regards our Church. As this locality has been but lately opened up, the accommodation for public worship is but poor, I having generally to hold the service at private houses. At one of the stations a school-house was erected last winter, and here there is a respectable congregation. There is also a Sunday-school attended by all classes, but in general conducted by members of the Church. Since I last wrote we have had a visit from our venerable Bishop, who was here on the 7th and 8th of June, to hold confirmations at the different churches. When here he consecrated three churches, viz., St. James's, Orillia; St. Mark's, Oro; and St. Luke's, Coldwater-road. The number of candidates confirmed at the three was forty-five. These young persons were prepared for this solemn rite by your missionary, who for several weeks was left to do the work of the parish, as the late Incumbent had removed to another charge. The present Incumbent, the Rev. A. Stewart, is an old and warm friend to the Society, and I trust, under his superintendence, the work of God will prosper in these parts.

"This is all I may say at present as to my labors here. Lately, owing to my time being taken up with the confirmation classes, I have not been able to do as much visiting as I could have desired; but, from this time forward, I trust I shall not be remiss in this respect."

"The time has again come that I should give you some account of the work of the Lord in these parts. The services at the different churches have been kept up during the summer without intermission, and, if one may judge from the increased attendance and attention of the people, we have reason to hope that our labor is not in vain in the Lord. Since I last wrote, the Incumbent and myself have visited very largely amongst the people in the country, sometimes spending several days with them before returning. This gave us a good opportunity of conversing with them of the things of the kingdom, of finding out their several wants, and stirring them up to give more diligence to the means of grace. I have also spent considerable time among the distant settlers in the Morrison and Muskoka townships. These places I visit monthly. In July I thought I would go without a horse, so as to have a better opportunity of calling at the different cabins along the way. In this manner I acquired more correct information of the number of families who belong to our Church than I could in any other way. By becoming acquainted with their several circumstances, I endeavoured to sympathize with them in the trials to which they are subjected in a new country. In all such visits I generally make a point of reading a portion of the Word of God, adding a few practical remarks, and concluding with prayer. I have been invariably well received, and, in their simple, earnest thanks and kind wishes, have often been encouraged. During the past quarter I have baptized a good many children, and several adults in the same locality. In one instance, in a whole family, numbering seven, not one had been baptized, although the parents had lived within the reach of the means of grace till the last few years. Three of the children I baptized as adults, after giving them such religious instruction as my time would allow of at such a distance. I appointed a special service at the house for the occasion, for there is no church within fourteen miles of the place; and after questioning them on their knowledge of the ordinance, and their purpose to carry out the obligations which they were about to assume, they were received into the number of Christ's professing Church. To me, and to the few who were present, it was a very interesting ceremony to see a whole family devoted to God at once.

"In regard to the Sunday-schools in the parish they are all going on prosperously. There is a school at three of the churches."

"April 1.—Since my last Report another quarter has passed away, and you will now expect me to give you some further news from this Mission. I have every reason to be grateful to our heavenly Father, that during the time I have been blessed with good health, and have been able to fulfil all my appointments.

"The winter is usually severe in these quarters; and, though this year has not been so much so as others, still by many it has been thought very long, especially by those who have lately come to the place and are not very well provided for.

"To those like myself who have to travel so much, the winter season is very pleasant, as it is always more easy to visit the back districts, which at other seasons are almost impracticable. Besides giving the usual assistance in the parish, I have, during the past quarter, extended my labors to the adjoining parish of Medonte, which has been without the ministrations of the Gospel for some months past. But owing to the number of churches in our parish I have not been able to give them more than one service in the month; that, with what time for visiting I can spare from my own field, will, I trust, keep them in remembrance of their duty to their Saviour till they get a missionary for themselves. The Muskoka settlement, which receives my special attention, is, I trust, benefiting under the services which they receive. In many parts of this new settlement the people are increasing so rapidly that they will soon be able to form several congregations among themselves. At the furthest station, which is twenty-five miles from the village, they are very desirous of having a house of worship erected, and, in order to test their strength, there was a meeting called in February, to see what they could do. To this I was accompanied by the Incumbent of Orillia, and several gentlemen, who took an interest in the matter. After public worship the matter was brought before the congregation, and it was decided that a frame-church, 40 by 20, should be erected. One person very kindly gave an acre of ground for the purpose, and I trust, before the summer has gone, we shall have it opened for worship. Thus is God enabling us to do something for His cause in this new field. It is only a beginning, but I trust this little spot in the wilderness will so shed its light all around that many will feel its blessed effects, in not only bringing them within its fold, but also in leading them to that Saviour who only can light up the dark valley of the shadow of death. It is refreshing to the heart of the missionary to see the good seed of the Word taking root and bringing forth much fruit. It is for this object that he labors, toils, and spends his strength; yet too often has he to take up the words of the Prophet, 'Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?' These words often recur to me when reflecting on the surrounding worldliness; yet I have to thank God that I am often encouraged in my labors, especially when visiting amongst the people. I often meet with one here and another there who go up to Zion to be refreshed on their journey heavenwards. Last week, when out in the country, I called at a house where I had not been before, and was rejoiced to find in the father of the family one whom I trust is not a stranger to the power of the Gospel. He told me that until about five years ago he had been a Roman Catholic, and had been taught that he was to obtain salvation by his own works, and by strictly fulfilling the requirements of the Church; but that by means of reading the Bible and conversing with Protestants he had been convinced of the errors of such teaching—that his own good works could not save him. He is now a member of our Church, and appears to have a correct knowledge of the way of salvation, and seems more firmly grounded in the truths of the Gospel than many who can boast of having been Protestants all their lives. This is the rock on which so many are dashed to pieces, they rely more on the fact of belonging to a pure Church than to exercising faith in the Saviour of sinners, and the consequence is, as it was of old with the Scribes and Pharisees, the publicans and sinners enter the kingdom of heaven while they stand at a distance refusing to be saved.

"I trust that God will own His own work, and that many who are now in darkness in our midst may soon see the light of life."

TORONTO.—The Committee wish very much that it was in their power to announce the appointment of a successor to the late Mr. Ormerod in this city. They regret to say that this is not the case. They have made inquiries, but hitherto no one has offered himself whom they feel to be qualified for the post—one which requires the union of much patience and discretion with true missionary zeal and love for men's souls. They felt assured that it was better to leave the ground for the present unoccupied than to choose hastily one who was deficient in these important points. They have good hope, however, that before long they shall be able to report that they have found one who, they trust, will carry on the work in the zealous loving spirit which so distinguished the labors of Mr. Ormerod.

CONCLUSION.

In reviewing once more the condition of the Mission during the past year, the Committee feel they have much to be thankful for in the Report they have been able to give of the continued faithful services of their missionary agents. In these letters their friends will see plainly put before them the difficulties and hindrances which obstruct the work, and often cast down for a time the souls of the laborers; and also the encouragements and tokens of success with which the Lord has blessed them. If it is still almost impossible to surmount the obstacles in the way of perfect union between the white and the colored population, yet the prejudices among the latter against the ministrations of clergymen of the Church of England are less, and both they and their white brethren thankfully acknowledge the benefits conferred by the presence and labors of our missionaries. Again, it is satisfactory that in a year in which religious Societies in general have been beset with peculiar difficulties, the Committee have been free from financial embarrassment. At the same time they cannot conceal from themselves that this arises partly from the fact that some of their stations, as Chatham and Toronto, are unoccupied. Whilst these sheets are passing through the press, intelligence has been received that Mr. Creighton, appointed to Orillia little more than a year ago, is on the point of removing to another sphere, which will cause another vacancy. Once more, then, they would remind their friends of the difficulty they experience in finding men ready to go forth in the self-denying spirit of Christian love to labor in this field. It is not one which offers many worldly inducements, lucrative posts, or brilliant prospects; but it is one to which the Lord plainly calls us by the necessities and position of our African brethren in our midst, and by the encouragements by which He has cheered us in our work; and He can raise up such men, and by His Holy Spirit fit them to be able ministers of His Gospel to these poor fugitives. The Committee would urge their friends to bear this mission-field specially in their hearts, and to pray the Lord of the harvest that He would thrust forth laborers into this harvest, and continue to send down on those who are laboring the healthful Spirit of His grace.

Lastly, they feel some apology is due from them for the very late appearance of the present Report. The changes which have taken place in the Secretariat both of the Parent Society and of this Mission, and the uncertainty as to the arrangements which for some time prevailed, will, they trust, in some measure, be a sufficient excuse. They only allude again to the loss which has been sustained for the purpose of reminding all who help them in the work, to whose active labors during past years they have been so much indebted, how important it is that all should strive, even more than heretofore, to supply the void which must for some time be felt. May He from whom all good things do come bless all with the wisdom and strength they need, that His work may not languish! May it please Him to make this Mission more and more an instrument for saving the souls both of black and white; that thus, in the most blessed way, it may testify to the declarations of His Word, that He "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth," and that He "would have all men saved and come to the knowledge of the truth"!
